Shay's good-natured, competitive spirit in the office translates into a love of sport in her time off – especially Oztag.

Delivering the best results for future minds is a driving force behind Shay's practice as Assistant Project Manager.

"What makes our work so meaningful is the end-user: students and teachers who will benefit from the spaces we create and the solutions we provide," she says.

A solid background in accounting has set Shay up for continuing success on teams that manage dynamic and complex projects. A member of Australia Institute of Project Management (AIPM), she started her career as a number cruncher, but wisely decided to hone in on what she enjoyed most in business – working with people to deliver great outcomes by combining construction and finance expertise.

Shay loves to absorb the wealth of knowledge at Honeywill, taking inspiration from her colleagues' experience and passion for the industry. "What sets us apart is the amount of expertise in so many different areas. It's great to be part of a team that strives to think outside the box," she says.

She has a keen interest in her client's values and thrives on helping shape schools that nurture future minds. Giving students, teachers and staff facilities that are practical, useful and compatible with how they want to teach and express themselves is incredibly fulfilling. She gets satisfaction from handing over projects and spaces that are better than before.
